

RUSS COHN
Founder

Russ Cohn is the founder and CEO of NatureMill, a San Francisco-based company, which produces environmentally-friendly products. An expert in environmental issues, Cohn has a life long interest in landfill and recycling matters and brings his exceptional background in science to recycling problems.

Cohn holds a B.A. and a dual M.S. from MIT in Mechanical Engineering and Technology Policy. He wrote his graduate thesis on environmental policy in the auto industry.

Prior to founding NatureMill, Cohn worked as a management consultant in the global telecommunications industry. He subsequently started his own communications firm, which he sold in 2001.

Cohn has been involved with a number of conservation projects and in Habitat for Humanity.